The average man on the street without a legal background has little or no knowledge about what to do or how to proceed when a loved one passes away. Some people assume that things will happen automatically through some government scheme, which is a common misconception. This book explains what happens when a person passes away, either having written a Will or intestate without a Will, and sets out clearly the procedure to follow and the stages involved before assets and property can be properly dealt with, and why it is important to set up a Will and the disadvantages if you do not have one. The book contains interesting case studies of real-life situations to illustrate the different scenarios when a person passes away with and without a Will.

Whether you're someone who wants to plan the celebration of their own life or has a relative or friend of someone who is close to death, Where There's A Will There's A Wake was written by wake caterer and funeral director Karin Slade to empower people to own their end of life choices and to change the way we do funerals. Topics covered include how to establish your own clear guidelines, what your real options and rights are when it comes to death and dying, and how to plan ahead of time to organise a celebration of your own life or to help a loved one who is dying. By preparing a celebration of someone's life (or yours) in tune with their last wishes, you can help to take away pain, stress and overwhelm for your partner, parent, child, friend or whomever would be in charge of decision making for your funeral and wake. You can also save a considerable amount of money for your loved ones.

new bike race: The Transcontinental. 4,000km across Europe, unassisted, in the shortest time possible. On her first attempt she made it only halfway, waking up suddenly on her back in a field, floored by the physical and mental exertion. A year later she entered the race again - and won. Where There's a Will takes us into Emily Chappell's race, grinding up mountain passes and charging down the other side; snatching twenty minutes' sleep on the outskirts of a village before jumping back on the bike to surge ahead for another day; feeding in bursts and navigating on the go. We experience the crippling self-doubt of the ultra distance racer, the confusing intensity of winning and the desperation of losing a dear friend who understood all of this.

The world's attention turned to the U.S. Capitol on January 20, 2009, when Barack Obama took the Presidential oath of office. But inside the building, changes had already taken place that would have broad implications for his agenda. The 111th Congress had convened on January 6 with a far stronger Democratic majority than the one that had preceded it. Their ambitious legislative agenda requires the assistance of their staffs to prepare them for all the important issues on the legislative table. Thus, it is more important than ever to know about senior congressional committee staff members and the role they play in shaping today's legislation. While members of the House of Representatives and the Senate enact laws, it is often their staffers who exert the greatest influence in the lawmaking process. Staffers advise their elected bosses, establish political positions on issues, craft legislation, put policies in place, and play important roles on scores of congressional committees. The next time you need to find out who is the most effective person to advocate your cause, turn to the Insider's Guide for all the answers.
